HELD FOR SUPERIOR COURT.

Anthony Tabor Bound Over Under Bonds of $300.

Anthony Tabor was before Judge Arnold in the police court Monday morning, and to the charge of breaking and entering and with intent to torture and mutilate fowls, entered a plea of not guilty, although Sunday the defendant fully confessed that he had committed the crime and had done so on many occasions. The case was heard in chambers.

Officer Weeks told the court that he was detailed by Captain Richmond two weeks ago to watch John Kelley's chicken coop on Chapman street from 10 o'clock each night until 2 o'clock in the morning, and that Saturday evening with John Kelley he was on duty there. At about 11:30 o'clock the accused came over the stone wall and went up to the screen door leading to the chicken yard. He unhooked same and walking across the yard started to enter the coop through the window. He was caught by the feet as he was almost inside the coop. John Kelley, assistant superintendent of the water department, said that during the night of October 27 some one entered the coop and shot and killed five of his hens that died and on the night of November 7 five more were similarly handled. He had been watching for a number of nights, but on that particular one he had not done so. He said that he had stayed up Saturday evening with Officer Weeks and his testimony regarding the happenings of that night coincided with that of the first witness. He also described the nature of the cruelty.

The accused was asked if he had anything to say and he said that he had not. Prosecuting Attorney Buebe stated that the accused had made a full and complete confession of his deeds with reference to the fowls.

and then Judge Arnold said that even without the same there was ample grounds for binding the accused over to the next criminal term of superior court. This was done and a bond was fixed at $300.

There is no law covering the specific offense that the accused committed. It was the duty of the court to bind him to appear at the next term of court.

It has been found that no less than fifty-two hens have been found dead as a result of Tabor's nocturnal attacks. Frank Bergeron, 63 Elm street, lost 14; J. B. Davis, 42 Elm street, 7; Michael Sullivan, Chapman street, 7; John Kelley, 10; and another person lost 14.

Nothing has so stirred the residents of this town in years as this revolting crime. Tabor has lived here for something over four years.

NATURALIST'S TAME SQUIRREL.

Professor Turner Brings Pat from Camp Grounds—Bluejays Destroying Song Birds' Eggs.

Prof. W. O. Turner, who has spent the past eight months at the Willimantic camp ground, has taken up his winter residence at No. 17 Turner street. Professor Turner has acquired much fame in his study of the bird family and small animals, and their habits, nests and conditions of living in both winter and summer months, and is a much sought for lecturer on matters of this kind.

Last spring when he opened up house for the season at the camp ground, he found a litter of five young gray squirrels in the stovepipe of his cottage. When they became strong enough he gave them their freedom and daily left food for them outside of his house. They became very tame and hardly ever left the vicinity.

When he left the camp ground a few days ago he brought along with him one of his pets and placed him in a wire cage. The squirrel takes a piece of bread in its mouth and holds it in its paws and gnaws at it.

Speaking of birds, Professor Turner has no use for bluejays. He says they destroy nests and eggs of the bird tribe that are weaker than they. He figures that the song birds in the neighborhood are being killed off to the ravages of the blue jay.

OBITUARY.

Miss Adelaide L. Alford.

Miss Adelaide Louise, eldest daughter of the late Giles Alford, died at 10:30 o'clock Monday morning of heart disease. She had been in ill health for a year and had been at the private hospital for the past fortnight, and her death has been almost daily expected. Miss Alford was born in this city 44 years ago. She received her education in the town's public schools and was graduated from the old First District High school. For a number of years she was a teacher, for a time at the Natchaug school and later in Brookton, Mass., and Putnam, and was very successful. She attended the First Congregational church and was a member of Anne Wood Elderton chapter, D. A. R., and was at one time its secretary. Blessed with a fine character, she was liked by all who knew her. She lived with her mother, Mrs. Adelaide Alford, 106 Windham street.

Besides her mother there survive a brother, Carl R., and a sister, Miss Maud E. Alford, both in this city.

FUNERAL.

Unworthy Son and Brother Returned to Jail.

James Casper, arrested Saturday evening on the complaint of his mother and sister, was before Judge Arnold in police court Monday morning. He had just got out of Brookton jail, and becoming intoxicated, went home and started to cause a rumpus. He threatened his mother and sister with a butcher knife. The charge against him was drunkenness and breach of the peace. Pleas of guilty were entered on each count and he was sentenced to six months in jail.

He gave notice of an appeal to the superior court, and the bond was fixed at $200. After a little consideration he decided to take his sentence. He would have to wait until March for the superior court to come in, and with good behavior his present sentence will be cut down to a trifle over five months.

There was also a Sunday drunk, Dominick Vagner, before the court, and he paid a fine of $10 and costs following a plea of guilty.

Audience Liked "The Third Degree."

Theater patrons who attended the "The Third Degree" Monday evening witnessed the presentation of a superior play. "The Third Degree" Not in many months has such a strong attraction been greater with such fine house. The cast was an exceptionally good one and so evenly balanced as to call for frequent and well sustained applause. If it is possible to get a return engagement, Manager Gray will do so, as the presentation made a decided hit.

TENDERFEET HIT THE TRAIL.

Long Hike for Coon Hunters, but Worth the Pains.

Saturday night was a big night for the more than two score members of the Bohemian club who went coon hunting up the vicinity of the Killingly. It was a mighty long tramp for most of the party and nearly all of them were tenderfoot. The tramp through the woods is estimated at little less than 20 miles, but 19 of those that started finished the trip and without any great discomfort.

George Jacques of East Killingly, who was the guide for the party, to many of them he now appears as the "Bwana Tumbo" of this county—says that it was the greatest coon hunting party that ever made good in that section and George knows. Tramping along through the woods in a long drawn out single file, with lanterns marking the position of each man, the sight was such a one as has never before been seen in the gloom of the heavily wooded country where the hunt was held.

The party thing about the trip was that the two coons were treed and captured when the party had been out only a little more than an hour. The rest of the night the party walked without reward except for the fun they made.

Pray Reservoir Chiefly Mud.

The Pray reservoir at East Killingly presents an unusual picture at the present time to those that are familiar with the body of water. At present it is more a body of mud than a body of water. The long continued dry weather has reduced it to a group of mud flats. The water is so low that a basin of black, sticky soil.

This reservoir has always been a favorite place for the town of Danbury, but it may not be so good hereafter. Many of the fish have been driven out and many others have been under for food and other living things that feed upon them.

The Pray reservoir, however, does not contribute to the water supply of Danbury. The water is used for fishing water for Danbury is still well filled and show no great loss because of the lack of rain.
